CHILD WELFARE

“Children are one-third of our population but all of our future.” In simple terms, it means that the children of today hold the key to tomorrow and what will unfold in the future. They are the living messages we send to a time we will not see. A child’s development, however, depends on the environment. Extensive research has been carried out in several countries to study the effect of environment on the mental, physical and spiritual growth of children.

Children brought up in a chaotic, unpleasant and aggressive society will only absorb and reflect what they experience around them. They are, after all, products of their surroundings.

But give them a caring environment with cultural fragrance and all-inclusive activities, and they will be moulded with a sense of duty and good character, keen on making a similar positive contribution to society and the greater good.

BGMS strongly believes in the inherent goodness of all children and their potential to make the world a better place. BGMS, through its many activities, strives to give all its children the essential tools to turn into the ideal citizens of tomorrow.
